About This Guide

Welcome to this year's edition of the Detroit Parents' Guide to Schools, brought to you by the Community Education Commission.

Deciding which school in Detroit is the best fit for your child is an important and challenging process. Inside this guide, you'll find resources to get you started on your journey. You'll also find school profiles for each public district and charter school in the city.

Once you've selected a school, keep this guide handy. We've provided a host of additional resources—scholarship and career information, adult education opportunities, job training information, and much more—to help you and your family carve out a path to success.

About the CEC

 Get to know the team responsible for this guide and learn more about the work they do to help Detroit families succeed.

The Detroit Parents' Guide to Schools is brought to you by the Community Education Commission (CEC).

Founded in May 2018, the CEC is a nonprofit organization that works to increase access to quality education for all Detroit families. The CEC works with diverse stakeholders across the city to develop innovative, critical resources that address common challenges that Detroit families face, such as access to transportation, afterschool care, and transparent information about schools.

According to the commission's bylaws, the members include:

- The Detroit Public Schools Community District administration
- A Detroit Public Schools Community District teacher
- A charter school operator
- A charter school teacher
- A representative from labor unions representing Detroit teachers
- At least one parent of a school-aged Detroit child

What does the Community Education Commission do?

CHAMPIONS ADDITIONAL RESOURCES THAT HELP MORE FAMILIES AND STUDENTS GET THE BEST EDUCATION THEY CAN IN DETROIT

The CEC launched the GOAL Line, a novel program that offers transportation and afterschool programming to students who attend partner schools. In the 2019-2020 school year, GOAL Line has partnered with 14 district and charter schools. See page 148 for more information about the GOAL Line.

SHARES INFORMATION ABOUT SCHOOLS

The CEC is responsible for making sure that parents and students can easily access accurate and meaningful information about any district or charter school in the city.

HOLDS PUBLIC MEETINGS

According to the commission's bylaws, the group will meet eight times per year. All meetings will be open to the public.

Who's on the Community Education Commission?

The Community Education Commission is led by a board of 11 members appointed by Detroit Mayor Mike Duggan. They are all volunteers.

Welcome from the CEC Chair

On behalf of the Community Education Commission (CEC), I am excited to present to you the second edition of the Detroit Parents' Guide to Schools. Since being formed last year by Mayor Duggan, the 11-member commission has been hard at work providing educational resources to students and families that extend beyond the school day.

As a nonprofit, we do not run schools; however we believe that by providing needed wraparound support services, we can help students in Detroit reach their full capacity for learning. Studies have shown that children who participate in afterschool programs do better academically. We currently offer afterschool programming through our GOAL Line Program (page 148), which provides students in Northwest Detroit with transportation to and from our partner district and charter schools and to Northwest Activities Center for high-quality afterschool programming. We are actively looking for other areas in the city to expand the GOAL Line program.

This year's guide features information on school culture and top extracurricular activities. It also has an expanded parent resource section, which includes information on early childhood education, career, and educational resources for parents. It's designed for use beyond the start of the school year.

We hope that the Detroit Parents' Guide to Schools becomes your trusted source for school information and parental resources as you plan for your child's educational success.

Navigating School Options

School Terms to Know

 Understand the education terminology used in this book to help you choose the right school.

“authorizer”

The governing board of a public body that is legally allowed to issue the “charter” for a charter school. By state law, these agents can include public universities, community colleges, and K-12 traditional school districts.

“bilingual education”

The practice of teaching non-English-speaking children in their native language while they’re also learning English. Detroit Public Schools Community District provides this service in 30 languages to more than 6,000 students. Check with the district or specific charter schools to discover offerings.

“charter schools”

A tuition-free “public school academy” created by a written grant (charter) between an “authorizer” and an outside group, such as teachers and parents. Charter schools can include grades K-12 in any combination. Each charter is considered its own district. Detroit charters are open to all Detroit students, regardless of neighborhood, and must follow the same federal and state laws that govern traditional public schools.

“district schools”

A traditional, free-of-charge, tax-funded public school system. The Detroit Public Schools Community District (DPSCD) replaced Detroit Public Schools in 2016. DPSCD’s 100+ schools are open to all kids who reside in the city, and each child is guaranteed a spot starting in kindergarten.

“individualized education program” (IEP)

An IEP outlines the instruction, supports and services a student will receive to help them make progress and succeed in school. IEPs are tailored to individual students and list the specific accommodations a school will provide, such as note-taking aids or extra time to complete tests.

“intermediate school district” (ISD)

A regional education agency. Michigan has 57 ISDs. Each has a board and a superintendent, just like a local district. In Wayne County, Wayne RESA is an ISD that serves students and families, plus 137 charter schools and school districts.

“paraprofessional”

An instructional assistant or teacher’s aide. A “parapro” assists the teacher in the classroom by providing special education support, like speaking a child’s home language or one-on-one instruction.

“private schools”

Independent schools that aren’t administered by the local, state, or national government. Private schools retain the right to select their student body and are funded in whole or in part by charging tuition, since they don’t receive public dollars.

They are NOT included in this guide, which only features public schools located in Detroit.

“schools of choice”

A school district that opts to accept students beyond typical boundaries. In Detroit, this includes accepting students who reside outside city limits. For Detroit Public Schools Community District, students in the Wayne County intermediate school district (ISD) may enroll, as well as students who live in

ISDs that share a border with Wayne RESA.

“select admission”

Some schools have special admittance rules. Detroit Public Schools Community District has 18 “application schools,” which include elementary/middle and high schools, that require an application to enroll; five of the high schools are “exam schools,” which require special testing. For current deadlines, visit detroitk12.org/enroll.

“special education”

By law, students with disabilities and special needs receive specific programs and services. These are outlined in an individualized education program (IEP) plan tailored for each student. 504 Plans list the accommodations a school provides for students (audiobooks, note-taking aids, extra time to complete tests, etc.). Detroit schools work with families to ensure these needs are met. The Detroit Public Schools Community District central office or charter school authorizer can provide help if needed. See the Important School Contacts (page 146) for phone numbers and email addresses.

Types of Schools in Detroit

✦ Understand what educational opportunities there are in Detroit to choose from and the differences among them.

Detroit Public Schools Community District (DPSCD)

Schools operated by DPSCD are free to all children who reside in Detroit. Starting in kindergarten, every child who lives in the district is guaranteed a spot in a DPSCD school.

Transportation and other services may be provided based on the address where the child resides, the child's educational needs, and any additional needs the child may have regarding transportation and/or student support.

To apply, most DPSCD schools require families to complete an enrollment form at the school of their choice. Some schools may require a specialty application or examination, which is noted in the school's profile under Enrollment. See page 15 to review documents that you'll likely need to enroll in the school of your choice.

Schools are directly overseen by an appointed superintendent and an elected school board. Board meetings must follow the public meetings laws.

Charter schools

Charters operate under "open enrollment requirements" that mandate that any child who applies must be enrolled unless a seat is not available. When demand for a school is higher than availability, a public lottery is held to assign open seats.

These public schools are open and free to all Detroit students, regardless of their neighborhood boundaries. Students from anywhere in the city may apply to any Detroit charter school.

Each school has its own application process. Enrollment requirements can be found by reviewing school profile pages in the Detroit Parents' Guide to Schools, by visiting the school's website, and/or by contacting the school.

Charters open via charter contracts issued by a select group of authorizers that are responsible for oversight of charter schools in Michigan. Charters must meet the same laws as traditional public schools for serving families experiencing homelessness/transition, special education students, and youth returning from incarceration. A board oversees each school and holds public meetings according to law.

Private schools

These are non-public schools that charge tuition for attendance. Some offer school-based financial aid and/or accept scholarships or outside forms of financial aid.

- Some have religious affiliations.
- Each school has its own application process.
- Private schools are NOT included in this guide.

Virtual schools

These web-based schools typically provide all textbooks and instructional materials, and students are assigned to certified teachers. A growing number are available in Michigan. Some are classified as charters (such as Michigan Virtual Charter Academy and Highpoint Virtual Academy of Michigan) while others are operated by a local school district. Tuition-based options are available.

- Each school has its own application process.
- Virtual schools are NOT included in this guide.

Specialized DPSCD programs

APPLICATION SCHOOLS

DPSCD has 18 "application schools," which include elementary, middle, and high schools, that require an application to enroll. Five high schools are "exam schools," which require special testing. For current deadlines, visit detroitk12.org/enroll.

EXCEPTIONAL STUDENT EDUCATION CAMPUSES

ADULT EDUCATION

The district provides free classes for adults, including high school completion, GED programs, Adult Basic Education and Pre-GED, English as a Second Language, and job readiness training. See page 145 for more info.

School Decision Timeline

✦ Plan your time for school visits, testing, enrollment, and more.

Choosing a School: Step-by-Step Guide

Consider Your Options

 Gather information to help you find the right fit for your student and family.

Prioritize what is important to you

Think about what's most important to you in a school—culture, academics, location, transportation, afterschool activities, resources, etc.—and find schools that offer what you're looking for. Here are some key topics to consider.

School

- What school culture, values, or mission are you looking for?
- How does the school approach student safety and discipline?
- What school hours and schedule work for you? (Check the school calendar. Do the holiday breaks, days off, and half days align with your schedule?)
- How does the school engage and interact with parents and guardians?
- Is supervised before- and afterschool care offered? What activities are offered on weekends? Do they require a fee?
- Do you need transportation? If it's not provided, are you OK with public transportation or private options?

Education

- What type of academics and curriculum best meet your student's needs?
- Are there certain activities or courses that you want the school to offer?
- How strong is the school academically and how well are students performing? For high schools, what is the graduation rate?
- How does the school support gifted students or those with special needs? What resources are available (social workers, etc.)?
- What are the expectations for kids who are enrolling for the first year? How does the school help those coming in behind or who are advanced?

In the classroom

- What courses does the school offer?
- What is the average class size and student-to-teacher ratio?
- What is the level of experience of the teachers and staff? Are the teachers certified?
- Are parent volunteers welcome in the classroom?
- Does your student have special needs that the school must meet?

Refine your list

Use the School Profile information starting on page 16 or visit DetroitSchoolsGuide.com to find information about public schools in Detroit and search by neighborhood, grade level, activities offered, school type, and more.

Once you have a shortlist of 4–7 schools, reach out to your friends, other parents, community members, and educators to see what they know about the schools.

Ask about culture, the administration, and any other things you consider important.

Find a School Near You

Get acquainted with Detroit's seven districts and find a school in your neighborhood.

Explore schools by district

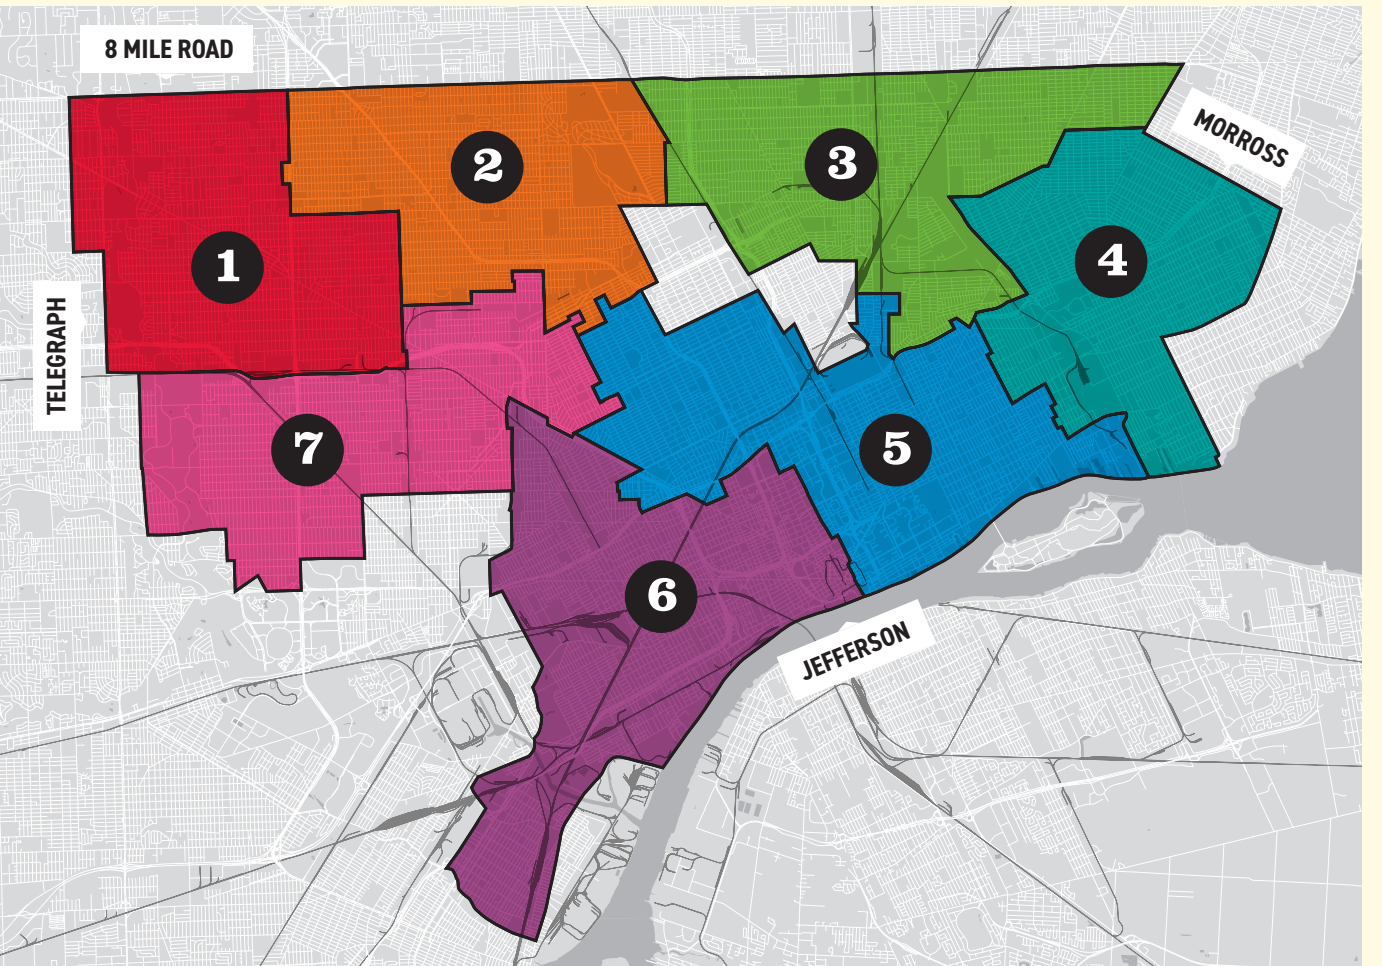

Detroit is a geographically large city with many neighborhoods. The school profiles in this guide are divided into the seven City Council districts that cover the city. Use the information below to find a school in your district or the district(s) of your choice.

Schedule a Tour

✦ Find out if a school is the right fit by asking these questions while on school tours and visits.

Plan your visit

Once you've created a shortlist of potential schools, make time to visit the schools in person. When you schedule your tour, make sure there's time to talk with the principal, teachers, or other staff.

Observe

Look for these things while you walk around the school:

- Does the school feel welcoming?
- Is the building neat and clean? Do things appear to be in good working order?
- Do you feel comfortable with the security measures in place? Does the location seem safe?
- How are adults interacting with students?
- What are students doing? Do they look interested and engaged?
- What technology is available in libraries or classrooms?

Interview

Talk with the principal and school staff to find out if the school is a good fit for your student. Here are some sample questions to get you started:

FOR ALL SCHOOLS

- How are you working to make sure every child is learning and making progress?
- How does the school support students who have academic, behavioral/emotional, or social difficulties? How will the school support my student's needs?
- What activities are available to students beyond the classroom?
- How would you describe the school culture?
- How experienced are the teachers? How often do teachers get training?
- How are parents involved in making decisions at the school?
- What kind of homework will my student have?
- How does this school keep students safe? What are the school's discipline policies?

FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

- How does this school prepare students for college? For careers?
 - How does your counselor help students choose classes and make decisions about college, careers, and life after high school?
- For more information on high school resources, read Preparing for Post-Graduation on page 144.

Prepare for Enrollment

✦ Make sure you have all the documents necessary to enroll in the school of your choice.

Gathering your documents

All schools require certain information and documents to enroll. The following checklist will give you a basic idea of what you'll need to enroll your student. It is still very important that you check with your school of choice to find out their specific requirements.

- ☐ Completed enrollment form from the school
- ☐ Parent/guardian photo ID
- ☐ Proof of address
- ☐ Immunization record
- ☐ Transcripts/report card from previous schools

What qualifies as an official proof of address? Here are a few options.

- Driver's license
- Detroit ID*
- Utility bill
- W-2
- Pay stub
- Official government mail
- Public assistance documents

*The Detroit ID is for ALL Detroiters, including returning citizens, homeless individuals, and immigrants regardless of immigration status. To learn more, call (800) 408-1599.

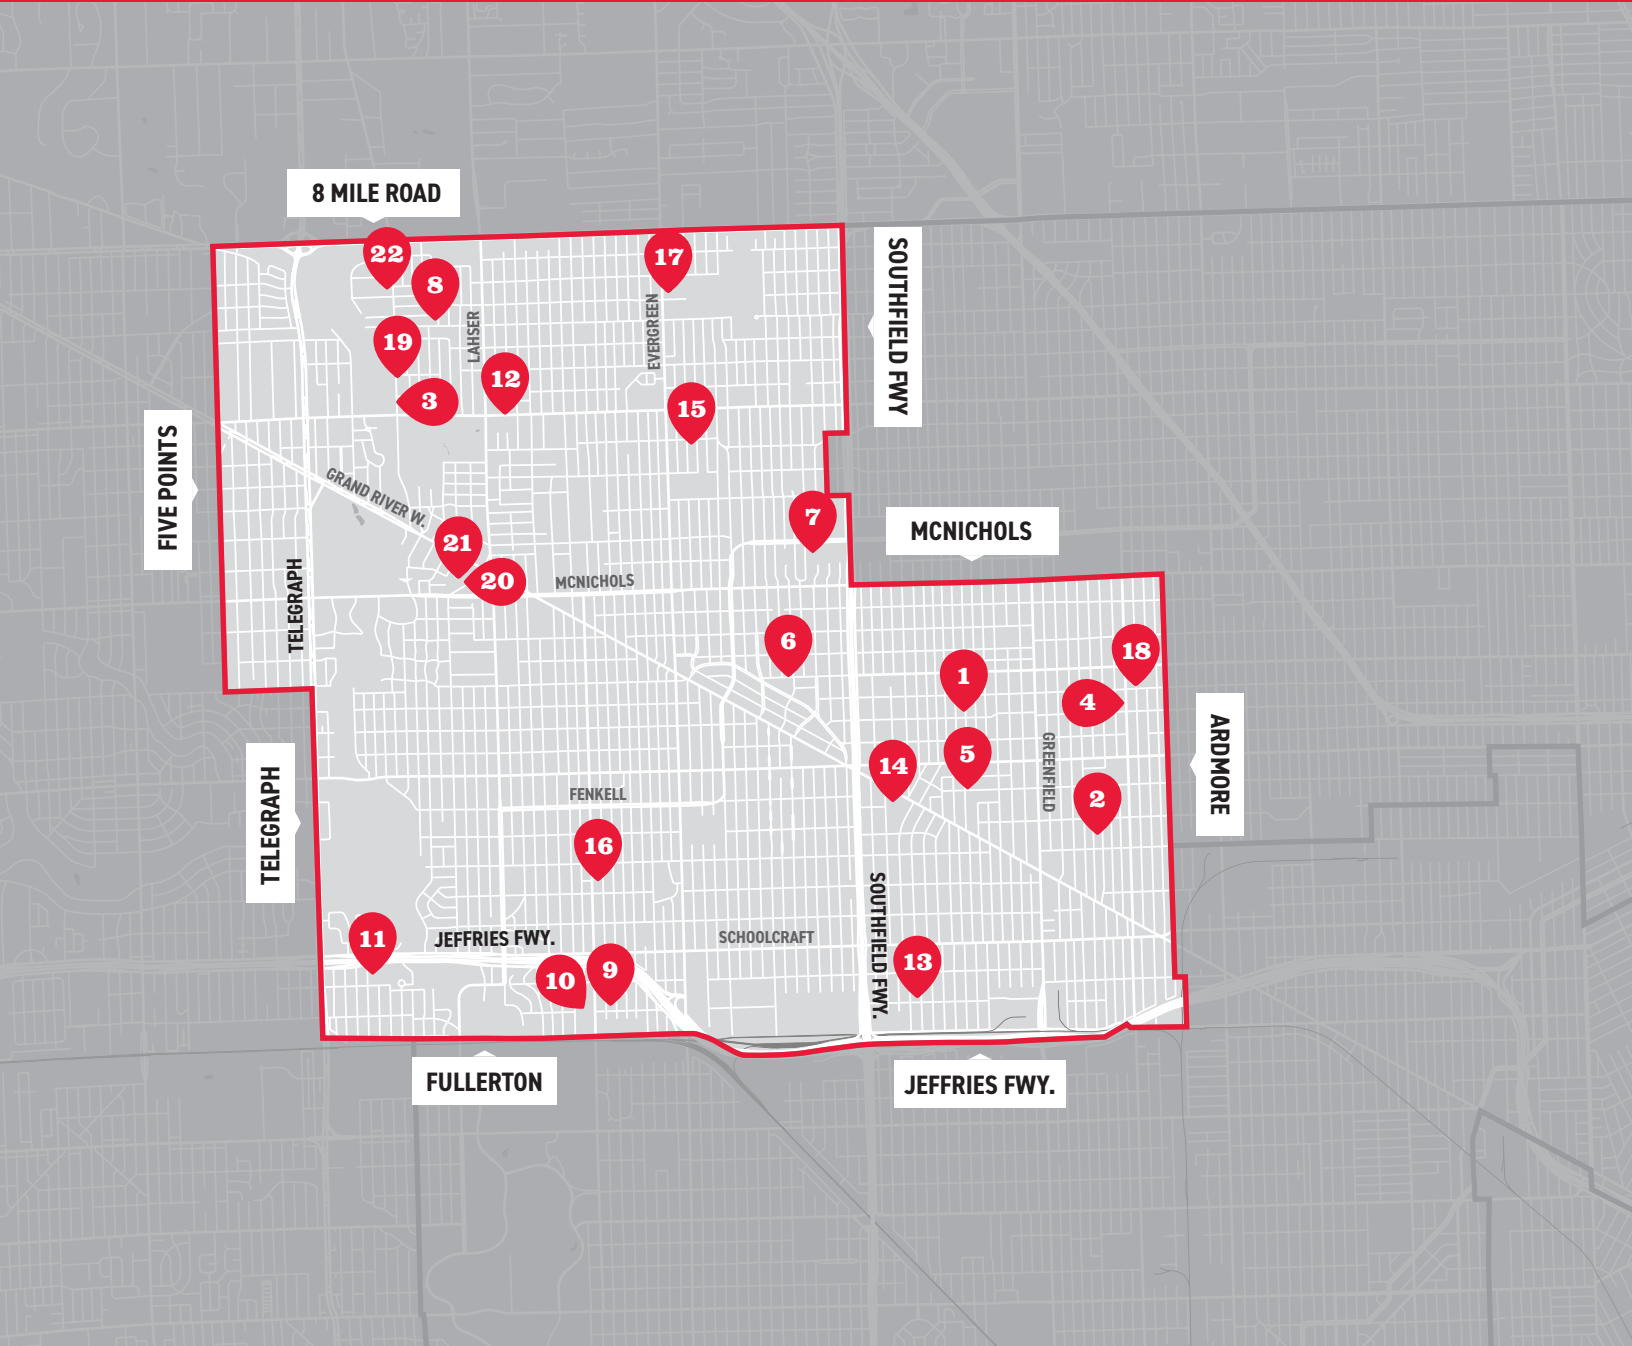

TAKE NOTES! Use this space to document your thoughts throughout the school-choice process.

A top-down photograph of three children sitting on a light-colored wooden floor, engaged in drawing. They are using various colored markers on white sheets of paper. One child in the top right is wearing a white shirt and a silver watch. Another child in the bottom left is wearing a red sweater. The third child in the bottom right is wearing a striped shirt. The title 'Early Learning Resources' is overlaid in large, bold, black letters on a yellow background on the left side of the image.

Early Learning Resources

Early Childhood Education

 Build an educational foundation that will help your child succeed.

The importance of early childhood education (ECE)

Research has shown that 90% of a child's brain development happens before age five. Through early childhood education (ECE) children get to participate in quality early learning experiences and caring relationships, which research and experience shows prepares them for greater success in school and life.

ECE is more than just "daycare." Children benefit from programs that provide:

- Evidence-based curricula
- Developmental assessments and nutritious meals
- Opportunities for parents/guardians

ECE programs are run by trained professional educators licensed by the State of Michigan. They are required to have background checks, fingerprinting, professional development, safety inspections, and compliance checks.

Types of licensed child care centers

CHILD CARE CENTER

A facility based in a commercial building that receives one or more children for care (without parents present) for periods of less than 24 hours a day.

HOME-BASED FAMILY CARE HOME

A facility based in a home that cares for 1–6 unrelated children for more than 4 weeks a year.

GROUP CHILD CARE HOME

A center based in a home that provides care for 7–12 unrelated children for more than 4 weeks a year.

Did you know?

- Kids who aren't reading at grade level by 3rd grade are four times more likely to drop out of school (Heckman, J.J. 2017 in Hope Starts Here report).
- Low-income children who participate in high-quality ECE earn up to 25% higher incomes than their peers when they grow up (Heckman, J.J. 2017 in Hope Starts Here report).
- Research finds that nearly half of the black-white kindergarten achievement gap could be eliminated with high-quality ECE (Duncan and Magnuson 2013 in 2014 White House report).

Looking for an ECE center for your child?

Visit DetroitSchoolsGuide.com for links to ECE center listings and other helpful resources.

Here are some things to consider when evaluating ECE centers for your child.

STAR RATING

The state of Michigan rates ECE centers through their Quality Rating Improvement System. Participation in the rating system is optional. Providers that do participate can receive 0–5 stars.

TEACHER TRAINING & EXPERIENCE

ECE centers are staffed with teachers who have varying degrees of experience and professional training, which may include a degree in early childhood education and continuing professional development coursework.

CURRICULUM

Some ECE centers follow a structured curriculum and/or Great Start to Readiness, Michigan's approved set of curricula for use in the statewide PreK program.

313 Reads!

313 Reads! is a citywide initiative that works to ensure that all children in Detroit are reading at grade level by 3rd grade.

Why 3rd grade reading matters

After 3rd grade, students switch from learning how to read to using reading skills to learn other subjects like math, science, and history. Without a strong reading foundation by 3rd grade, students may start to fall behind. Third-grade reading is also the most important predictor of high school graduation and career success.

What parents can do

There are several organizations in the community that provide resources to help children succeed and develop their language and literacy skills. Call or visit their websites to see what resources are available to you and your family.

Parent Resources

How to Get Involved

Engage in your child's education and help your student have a more positive attitude toward school and learning.

Meet with your child's teacher

Schools often hold parent-teacher conferences for parents or guardians to meet with their students' teachers. If you can't make it during the scheduled time, ask the school if you can schedule a meeting for another time. Some schools even offer parent-teacher home visits.

Join a parent or community group

At many schools, parents meet regularly as a group to discuss ways to support school leadership and identify ways to improve the school. This group is usually called the Parent Teacher Association (PTA) or Parent Teacher Organization (PTO). If you are unable to attend these meetings, find out if the school posts minutes on their website.

Volunteer at the school

Ask your student's teacher or the school administrators what opportunities exist for parents to volunteer in the school. It's a great way to meet the staff and students, to support the school, and to get involved in your student's education.

Participate in parent classes

Parent classes and support groups help parents and guardians develop important tools, new skills, and the confidence to become strong advocates and support their students academically, socially, and emotionally.

DPSCD PARENT ACADEMY

Parent Academy focuses on three key pillars: Student Achievement, Personal and Professional Development, and Parenting/Advocacy. Classes are free and offered in convenient locations around Detroit.

Note: Parents do not need to have a child in a DPSCD school to participate!

- 📞 (313) 873-7490
- 🌐 detroit12.org/resources/parents/parent_academy

DETROIT PARENT NETWORK

Detroit Parent Network (DPN) offers courses where parents can earn certificates in topics like Parent Leadership and Parent Advocacy. DPN also offers support groups targeting moms, dads, grandparents, and others.

- 📞 (313) 309-8100
- 🌐 detroitparentnetwork.org

Prepare for your parent-teacher conference

Make the most of your time with your student's teacher by preparing for the meeting beforehand.

BEFORE THE CONFERENCE

Talk to your student about their experience in school:

- What do you like about school?
- What are your favorite subjects?
- What is challenging about school?
- What should I ask about or tell your teacher?

Go over your student's work and ask yourself:

- Do I have concerns about their performance?
- What questions do I have about the class or materials?
- Do I have questions about how my student is assessed in class?

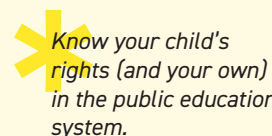

QUESTIONS FOR THE CONFERENCE

- Is my student on track?
- What are my student's strengths and areas for growth?
- How engaged is my student in lessons and activities?
- How does my student interact with other students and adults?
- How can I help my student improve or thrive?
- How can I best communicate with you?

SHARE FEEDBACK WITH YOUR STUDENT

- Talk with your student about improvement areas and brainstorm action steps
- Praise your student's strengths and successes
- Ask your student how you can support their success in school

Student Rights & Responsibilities

According to the Michigan Department of Education, all students have the following rights and responsibilities.

Right to...

- an education free from discrimination, harassment, and bullying
- due process
- protection from the use of any unlawful corporal punishment by school staff
- freedom of expression
- freedom from unreasonable searches and seizure

Responsibility to...

- be in school on time each day unless a tardy or absence is excused (students with more than 10 unexcused absences per school year may be considered truant)
- participate fully in the learning process
- reasonably avoid any behavior that is detrimental to their or another student's educational goals
- respect school staff and respect other students
- identify themselves upon request

Students experiencing homelessness

Children who are displaced have the right to enroll and remain enrolled in their school, per the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act of 1987 (reauthorized by Title X, Part C of ESEA). Schools must ensure access to transportation and academic supports as deemed necessary.

All public schools should have a designated homeless liaison.

By law, "homelessness" covers a variety of circumstances, from youth who lack a fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence to those who live in a motel, hotel, trailer, or emergency shelter to youth in migratory or foster care situations.

Students with special needs

Under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), students with special needs will receive a "free appropriate public education" tailored to their needs. All public schools must serve students identified for special education.

Parents have the legal right to request an evaluation of their children for special education services at any time. Districts must get parents' informed consent before providing such services for the first time.

All students should be educated in the "least restrictive environment," whether in general education classrooms with extra supports or, in some cases, self-contained classrooms or center-based programs.

Services are provided for a wide range of disabilities, including cognitive, emotional or visual impairment, autism, and specific learning disabilities.

Services include social work, psychological testing, speech and language therapy, occupational and physical therapy, assistive technology, and more.

Parents have the right to an "independent educational evaluation" of their child at public expense if they disagree with a school district's evaluation.

Services can be provided to children as early as infancy and up to age 26.

Other special populations

These populations include over-age youth, youth returning from incarceration, English Language Learners, etc.

Under the State School Aid Act, all students have the right to be educated by the district where they reside if they meet age requirements, haven't graduated, and haven't been suspended or expelled.

Principals, counselors, and other school or transitional staff may be available to support families in connecting students to education programs.

Under Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and Equal Educational Opportunities Act of 1974, public schools must ensure that English Language Learner (ELL) students can participate meaningfully and equally in educational programs.

"I need help!"

If you have concerns about your child's rights and/or the services that they are receiving, contact the following parties for guidance and resources to mediate the situation.

- School leadership (listed in the school profiles)
- The district/authorizer that oversees the school (listed in the school profiles; see page 146 for contact information)
- The Michigan Department of Education. Call (888) 320-8384 with questions related to special education.
- A community agency (see page 147 for contact information of helpful community organizations)
- United Way's 211 Service. Talk to a community care advocate by dialing 2-1-1 to find referrals for food, shelter, medical assistance and more. This service is available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Preparing for Post-Graduation

Students can take advantage of college and career resources while in high school to prepare for post-graduation success.

Preparing for college

Taking college-level classes in high school and exploring financial assistance options can set students up for success in college.

Advanced classes & exams

When considering admission, colleges look for students who took advanced courses and any associated exams in high school. By taking these classes, students may be able to earn college credit in high school, which helps them skip introductory courses in college, save money, free up time in their schedule, and even graduate early. Ask your high school if they offer any of the following programs:

ADVANCED PLACEMENT (AP)

The AP program offers college-level courses and exams to high school students across the country (including many Detroit high schools).

INTERNATIONAL BACCALAUREATE (IB)

IB programs teach students to think critically and develop academic, social, and emotional skills that are required to succeed in a global world.

DUAL ENROLLMENT

Many high schools offer courses in partnership with colleges and universities that allow students to earn free college credit while still in high school.

Detroit Promise

The Detroit Promise offers scholarship funding exclusively for Detroit high school graduates to attend over 30 Michigan two-year colleges and four-year universities. Detroit Promise is now also partnering with select community colleges to offer shorter-term skilled certification tracks that prepare students for skilled employment. Visit detroitatwork.com/youth/detroit-promise to learn more.

Exploring career paths

There are many opportunities for high school students to build important skills that prepare them to succeed in high-demand jobs. These classes and job programs encourage students to explore fields of study and career paths they may want to pursue after graduation.

Career and Technical Education (CTE)

Many high schools offer classes that allow students to gain industry and workplace knowledge, skills, and behaviors that prepare them for high-demand jobs. Some classes even allow students to earn industry certifications or college credits on their way to gaining skilled employment.

Grow Detroit's Young Talent (GDYT)

GDYT is a citywide summer jobs program for Detroit young adults between the ages of 14 and 24. Youth receive up to 120 hours of training and employment in jobs such as community cleanups, event planning, accounting, retail, Junior Police, and Fire Cadets. Youth participants must be permanent residents of the City of Detroit and be eligible to work in the United States. Visit gdyt.org to learn more.

PACE Detroit Center

Open to all students and adults, the Postsecondary Academic and Career Endeavors (PACE) Detroit Center offers workshops and one-on-one counseling for college enrollment and applications, financial aid, trade and vocational school, and adult continuing education. Text EZDetroit to 484848 to learn more.

Opportunities for Parents

Explore new career paths or continue your education and learn alongside your child.

Career opportunities

Parents and guardians looking for employment or opportunities to learn a new skill for a career should begin their search with Detroit at Work, which provides thousands of job and training opportunities to Detroiters every year.

Detroit at Work

Detroit at Work has three Career Centers throughout the city that help match qualified workers to local employers and training programs.

Detroit at Work is operated on behalf of the Mayor's Workforce Development Board by Detroit Employment Solutions Corporation (DESC), a Michigan Works! Agency and proud partner of the American Job Center network.

GOAL Line Program

Take advantage of this program's transportation assistance and afterschool enrichment.

The GOAL Line Program

Launched in August 2018, the Community Education Commission's GOAL Line Program offers transportation and afterschool programming to students attending partner schools. The GOAL Line was created in partnership with charter school operators, Detroit Public Schools Community District officials, teachers, parents, and city leaders to increase access to Detroit schools.

Transportation

Students at partner schools can ride the GOAL Line bus route to get to and from school. Buses run in the AM and PM and offer families reliable, safe transportation.

Afterschool programming

The GOAL Line also transports students to the Northwest Activities Center for enrichment programming during afterschool hours. Enrichment offerings include activities such as:

- STEM, robotics, and coding
- Swimming, sports, and martial arts
- Community and leadership development
- Arts and theater
- Hip hop and spoken word
- Cooking

This guide is for you

Selecting a Detroit school for your child can be overwhelming, but we at the Community Education Commission (CEC) are here to help. In this guide, you'll find resources to help you navigate Detroit's school options and choose a school based on your unique needs. Our school profiles detail school culture, logistical information, and enrollment expectations. Once you've made a decision about a school, don't put this guide on a shelf and forget about it. It contains many parental resources that can be utilized and shared with others, all year long.
